STATE FAIR TRIP INTERESTS BOYS

YOUNGSTERS EAGERLY AWAIT JOURNEY TO DETROIT FOR 10-DAY DEMONSTRATION

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN WILL ATTEND SCHOOLS

Everywhere in Michigan boys who won in the county competitions for free trips to the Michigan State Fair, Detroit, September 1 to 10, are preparing for their participation in the Boys' State Fair school of the seventy-third annual exposition.

Back of the boys' state fair school is the hope of building permanently in the minds of Michigan's future soil tillers what the Michigan State Fair is and hopes to accomplish.

The county eighth grade examinations for the trip to the fair this year included questions concerning state trunk line railroads, facts about Michigan which cannot be found in books, knowledge of crop rotations, warfare against weeds, insects and various other questions. Twenty questions made up the examinations.

Boys who win scholarships at the state fair all are from the rural districts. They come to the state fair at the expense of the exposition which includes transportation and living costs during the visit here.

Upon entering the school, each boy is subjected to a physical examination to determine whether or not he is strong enough to withstand the severe 10-day course.

The 10-day course includes lectures stock judges, inspection tours through all departments and visits about Detroit. Entertainment is provided to relieve the monotony of strenuous schooling. The school su-perintendent is E. T. Cameron, of

Besides the school, the Michigan State Fair also sponsors a course in conjunction with the Michigan Agricultural college, in which 150 boys and 150 girls participate. The youngsters are brought to the fair in relays of 30 every two days. When facilities permit, the entire group will be allowed to remain throughout the fair. All expenses of these children are defrayed by the fair.

Forrest A. Lord, of Mt. Clemens, a member of the board of managers, heads this department of which R. A. Turner, of Lansing, state club leader, is superintendent.

RIDE PILLION ON MOTORCYCLE

Fair Riders Said to Be Deserting Saddle Horses for the Faster-Gaited Machine.

Have you seen the "pillion girl"? maiden of years gone by, who rode "side-saddle" behind her swain on horseback, but the rollicking, daredevil knickered girl of today, perched precariously astride the extra seat or a motorcycle, bowling along the road at a 40-mile-an-hour clip.

Despite the wide dissimilarity in the style of riding, the name has per sisted in England and the "pillion girls" have become so numerous in that country that recently the depart ment on taxation and regulation of road vehicles sat in solemn conclave to decide whether the "pillion girl" is a source of danger to the general public, the New York Sun states.

It is not clear whether "general public" includes the pillion girl herself of whether the term comprises merely the motorists of the opposite sex whose eyes are unaccountably distracted from the road by the sight of a pretty girl on the rear seat of a motorcycle, flaunting graceful, silk-clad legs, her hair flying in the wind.

In any event, the committee reports there is no appreciable amount of evidence to indicate that the practice is a source of danger to the general public. They are of the opinion that no case has been made out sufficiently strong to justify the prohibition of the

On this side of the Atlantic the "pillion girl" is apparently safe from molestation. In fact, each year sees an increasing number of women operating their own motorcycles.

Services to Prevent Robberies.

Science, which has rendered us so many services, has now attacked a new problem. Inventors are pitilessly hunting the burglars of Paris. Many are now in search of means of defending the stores and banks against criminal attacks.

HER ENUNCIATION IN DANGER

Woman Was Beginning to Feel the Strain of Prolonged Conversation With "Foreigners"

The Woman was visiting the family on the event of the engagement of the youngest daughter. The family was Bostonian by birth and tradition, but the two eldest girls had married several years before and had left their native city. One of them married a Southerner and the other a Westerner.

Each had acquired the accent of her particular locality and the children of the Southern couple had a perfect Southern drawl, while the other sister's children had the broad Western

The effect was startling and the Woman could scarcely follow the conversation. It almost seemed that these sisters were from strange countries, each speaking her own tongue. The mother of the three girls was most confused. When she addressed her Southern daughter she unconsciously affected the Southern drawl and when she talked to her Western son-in-law she nearly perfected the Western accent.

In the hall later, as they were leaving, the mother clutched the Woman's

The Forty Immortals.

A name often given to the 40 mem bers of the French academy is the Immortals. These members are elected for life to the academy which meets twice weekly in Paris and which constitutes the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, poetry and the publication of the French classics. The academy was founded by Cardinal Richelieu in 1635, and is the most important and best known of the five academies composing the French institute, the other four being L'Academie des Inscriptions et Belles-Letters, L'Academie des Sciences, L'Academie des Beaux-Arts. and L'Academie des Sciences Morales et Politiques. Membership in the academy is the highest distinction within the power of the nation to bestow upon a literary man.-Kansas City Star.

Relics of Long-Past Age.

A large copper kettle and other relics of a past age, believed by students of archeology to have been buried 1,000 years, were unearthed recently by Dr. H. C. Myers, professor of chemistry at Whiteworth college, Spokane, Wash., a few miles north of the city, where some road excavating was be-

"With the copper kettle," said Doctor Myers, 'was the skull of an Indian, wrapped in a piece of buffalo skin. The copper was so old it had changed to copper carbonate. This chemical compound had been absorbed by the skull, and it had served as a preservative. A buckskin shirt also was found in the kettle. A few beads and some wampum also were secured from the excavation."

The Ostrich in Africa.

Some time ago the French authorities in western Africa undertook to organize the breeding of ostriches in the territory under their control. Ostriches are found wild in many parts of western Africa. Along the River Niger they avoid the neighborhood of man, but on some of the islands in that and other rivers the natives have established rude ostrich farms. One official, who was appointed to study the subject, says that the methods of the ostrich farmers of the Cape cannot be fully carried out in French territory. It is necessary to leave the ostriches in a partially nomadic state. They migrate more or less with the season's. When it becomes too dry in the south they go northward.

CONTRASTS THAT ARE VIVID

Good for Pessimist to Dwell on Difference of Life Today and Three Centuries Ago.

Just to learn how far we have come. take a look at the present and then glance backward anywhere from three centuries to times within the memory of men who are yet scarcely grayheaded. Take a walk down Leyden street and gaze on the model log cabin of the type which was once one of the best dwellings in the chief residential section of the town (Plymouth), back in 1621 and 1622. Imagine what the interior would be like on a winter day with only one fireplace harnessed to a chimney which needed a woodlot to feed it, but was a fine ventilator. Consider what the furnishings must have been and having completed this mental picture drop down several generations to the time of your great grandmother who used a smaller fireplace to do her cooking, or else had a brick oven instead of a Dutch kitchen or bake kettle for her bread and such, and the bathing facilities were-well, primitive to say the least. Yes, and she used candles dipped at home and made her soap in the backyard, the sort which took off dirt all right and seemed to carry along cuticle

Later came wood-burning stoves and still later some coal was used, but not so very much, for wood by the cart load was brought into town from the back lots and sold daily in town square not 50 years ago. Lumber was sawed by hand at times and the lumber mills used the old slow single sash saw shingles were rived by hand and split laths can be found in houses about here even now, but they are old ones Nails were made and window sash formed the winter job for the carpenter who was building a house. Plenty more contrasts will occur if one srops to think a moment and thinking is just what the really successful preacher tries to get his audience to do. The foregoing is only the outline of the heads of the sermon about houses and their contents and surroundings.-Old Colony Memorial.

SEES LACK OF IMAGINATION

Cleveland Writer Thinks Blunders of School Children Are Less Funny Than They Were.

"It doesn't seem to me," says the Cleveland observer, "that the blunders school children make nowadays are as funny as they used to be. And this, as the sociologist will tell you, argues that the school children haven't the imagination they used to have. It takes imagination to produce entertaining blunders of this sort, as any school teacher will tell you."

Here are two related by a Cleveland teacher. To the question, "What do you know about George Washington?" a ten-year-old replied, "George hit the tree with his hatchet an' his father sed, who dun it, an' George sed, I dun it, and his father sed, enny American boy can get to be President, an'

The other question was, "Who was Commodore Perry?" This was the answer: "He was out on the lake fighting an' he said, we have meet the ennymy an' then they turned him into stone."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Dead Nebulae."

There has been photographed most singular object in the constellation Taurus, the appearance of which suggests the term "dead nebula." It is a long, straggling mass, which seems to shut out the stars behind it. All round it the stars are strewn thickly, but within its boundaries very few appear and it is suggested that these may lie on this side of it. At one point there is a small, bright nebula, which gradually fades out. The feebler portions of the nebula would almost suggest that a large nebula exists here, but that the major portion of it is dead or non-luminous. In some places the dark object is manifestly darker than the starless parts of the sky around it .- Washing-

Motor-Car Boat.

A vehicle which is either a motorcar or motor-boat alternately has been designed by a Philadelphia company the hybrid being known as an automobile boat. Possessing doors that are absolutely watertight, the body of the "auto-boat" may be screwed up high above the axles when required for use in surf. Then, when deeper water has been reached, the steering-wheel which operates the front wheels while on dry land may be used to work the rudder which is in readiness astern.

Seated in such a vehicle, a motorist need fear nothing in the way of water though it be in the form of an inundation. All that seems needed now is an adapted "auto-boat" which is capable of flying.

Portable Playhouses.

Portable playhouses are a very interesting feature of the Hartford (Conn.) playgrounds. They have red canvas roofs and wire netting walls. and each is furnished with a small wooden table, four chairs and a set of wooden blocks. So light are these houses that they can be picked up and carried about to different parts of the parks and arranged in different ways-in a circle, in rows as if facing the village street or as country places with spacious yards. In these Lilliputian villages children of the playinghouse age never tire of acting out every phase of community life-playing store and bank, going to church, going to the theater and just keeping

Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, is probably the leading scientific research authority on vitamines. He has just issued a second revised edition, completely rewritten, of "The Newer Knowledge of Nutrition," a book of over 400 pages, bringing this timely subject down to date in the light of the newest and latest dependable knowledge. He advises a quart of whole raw tilk a day for adults and a corresponding amount for children. In a recent lecture he was asked the relative food asteurized milk and raw milk, and answered: "The difference between milk which has been pasteurized and raw milk is that pasteurized milk does not contain one of the vitamines. An infant exclusively fed on pasteurized milk may develop a disease called scurvy." Asked as to yeast as a source of vitamines, Dr. McCollum scurvy." Asked as to yeast as a source of vitamines, Dr. McCollum said: "The yeast advertised as regards the vitamines contained in it is a fraud." And added: "I have been approached every month for it is a fraud." And added: I have been approached every month for several years to say something favorable to commercial vitamine preparations. I have on my desk in Baltimore now two letters offering me $10,000 if I would write just a few words about yeast, for example. I, of course, had to turn it down." When Sir E. Bulwer Lytton penned his inspiring line on "the bright lexicon of youth," that lexicon was an open book to sages. No one can blame a college president for being stumped by "snuggle pupping." Only the youngest and most alert lexicographers can hope to cope with the campus vocabulary, and they only if they take their duties very seriously. "'Necking,'" writes one of the youngest and most serious of the junior lexicographers, "is a Harvard-Yale-Princeton term, about six years old, which has displaced 'petting'aged about twelve years—as a description of what our grandsires used to call 'spooning.'

Pollyop placed her warm cheek against the picture and smiled. She earnestly believed this wonder-mother was helping her to go and see Daddy Hopkins. She turned and looked longingly at the sick little man, then up-

But tan did not matter, for Daddy

All at once she heard a knock against the side of the hut. Hastily slipping out of the dress and folding it, she shoved it under her pillow. Then she put on her old dress and opened the door.

Larry Bishop was there, extending her a letter. Taking the note in

He paused, hoping she would open t in his presence. Being persuaded she did not intend to, he went out. His footsteps had no sooner died away than Polly sprang to the door and barred it. Then she turned the letter over and over and looked at it. Her name was on it; so it must be meant for her to read. A thrill of pleasure ran over her. Perhaps Robert had sent her a word of forgiveness. He might have written that some day he rould come again. With sparkling anticipation she cut open the envelope and by the light of Rapidly she examined every corner; the candle spelled out its contents. "Dear Polly," she read. "I couldn't manage that trip to Auburn. So sorry.

Polly looked dully at the paper, the words running into black smudgy lines. Then she could not go to Daddy Hopkins after all; and Jerry might die! Old Marc had once more laid his powerful hand upon her. Overcome with grief, she wept a while. Then she took the dress from under the pillow, rolled it carefully in a clean cloth and put it away.

The shock of Evelyn's cold note brought back the shadows to Pollyop's brown eyes. As the days passed slowly by, and the rich girl did not come to the shack again, Polly lost all hope

Her decision to go to Auburn in spite of Old Marc followed a letter that she received from Daddy Hopkins. Ke was very lonely, he said. He was counting off each day as so many hours nearer the time when he could see his dear children. With the picture of Daddy's loneliness stamped in misery on her mind came the thought that no one had the right to keep Jerry from his father.

From the time she conceived this idea, it never left her thoughts. She had often stolen rides on the Lehigh Valley train from Ithaca to the Silent City and dropped off where the engine took a switch while the Buffalo Special dashed by. Why could she not steal a ride clear to Auburn?

While the squatter girl was making arrangements to carry out this mighty plan, preparations for the MacKenzie-Robertson wedding were going rapidly forward. Evelyn, happy in her new love, untroubled by sympathy for the dead Oscar, passed the days mostly at dressmakers and in the shops. Her contentment would have been complete if her cousin Robert had not looked so sad, or if she could have rid herself of the sense of responsibility for his unhappiness. But hoping in her flippant way that all would come out well after she was married, she gave little heed to him and none at all to Polly Hopkins.

Early one morning Polly hopped quickly out of bed and after a breakfast of bread and beans, began to dress Jerry in the best he had. The day was chilly, and a fine rain drizzled over the lake.

Pollyop wrapped Granny Hope's old shawl around the little boy and tied a warm rag about his head; and the child, satisfied with his sister's assurance that he was going to see his father, sat on the cot wide-eyed, watching her in silence.

Polly combed her hair and washed her face and hands. Billy-goat Hopkins was in his place at the wood-box eating a handful of oats she had gleaned for him along the roadside. Polly wished that she might take him, too, but as long as she could not, Billy should have a better feed than usual.

After everything else was attended to, she unwrapped the silken dress and put it on. Her bare feet showed from under the hem, but she had decided she looked better without the boots, and as she stood gazing at herself up and down, she regretted that shoes too. Being careful not to soil her skirt, she knelt and allowed Jerry to climb on her shoulders.

The moment she stood outside the shanty in the rain, she shivered. The damp air nipped at her uncovered arms and neck. To travel the long distance to the station, so illy covered, was out of the question, and the gown would be drenched through in a few minutes. She turned back into the shack and placed Jerry on the cot.

Terry wants to see Daddy Hopkins," the child whimpered. "Ain't we goin', Pollyop?"

"Yep, sure!" said Polly. "But sister's got to put on her boots. She can't go this way. It's too cold and the walk to Ithaca's too long, honey.' Her brow puckered into a frown as she drew on her father's heavy boots and slipped into his ragged coat. Then she tucked the dress into the top of the boots that it might show as little as possible and went out again.

It was a long climb to the boulevard; and the boy was heavy. But he was very quiet, and a sudden rush of tears almost blinded her as she turned toward the city. How delighted both Jerry and Daddy would be when they spied each other! Gulping down her tears, she shut out the thought that perhaps some one would catch her breaking the law and clap her in fail

Granny Expe and her toothless smile flashed before the eyes of her tortured soul.

"Ask and it shall be given thee,"

"I did ask," Follyop cried aloud,

"but Old Marc said I couldn't. In the past months which had taken away three of her loves, many of the lessons Mrs. Hope had taught her had been effaced. She had even given up the habit of asserting with utmost ing arms.'

She was almost overcome with terror and fatigue as she neared the station. One thing seemed to clear her brow of wrinkles and lighten the load she was carrying. Not a soul was in sight. Even the station appeared to be deserted.

At the northern end of the Auburn ar, which was waiting for the engine o pick it up, Pollyop halted. walked around it stealthily, and then climbed up the steps. A little cry of joy leaped to her lips as the door opened under her touch. Holding her breath, she shifted Jerry to her arms and crept slowly in.

If Milady wants to make her summer complete she must have a bathing suit—and if she is very fastidious she will want the nobby shoes and caps that go with a complete bathing outfit. If she wants to combine good style with good values she will look over the stock of bathing supplies which we are showing. No summer is really enjoyed unless one can enjoy a cool plunge in the river or lake and nowadays when the beaches are always lined with onlookers as well as the bathers themselves-Milady must be doubly careful that she looks well and right up to the minute. The swim is twice as much fun if she has that coveted feeling that she is being admired. If she has inspected our line of bathing suits and picked out the one that is just exactly suited to her complexion she will be sure to have this feeling.

Dainty Underthings

When the summer frock is sheer and airy Milady must look to her underthings to be sure that they are just right. We have a shipment of lingerie—with a wide choice in materials and styles-Philippine underwear is always good and it always looks so fresh and cool. Then we have the silks-crepe de chine or wash satin-or-we have the dainty batistes and cotton materials—all of them will wash and all are very good this season. If Milady would be a little different we suggest gingham or pongee—they are very good this season. As for styles—we leave it to you—there are so many models—and all of them are so good looking some are fancy creations of art-ribbon and lace bedecked-others are more tailored but just as nobby.

We have just received a shipment of extra fine quality silk hose-in all colors-black, white and beige seem to be the bestsome are fancy models, with cobweb designs—some are plain, heavy silk-but all of them are lovely, and best of all they are durable.

Imprisoned Cat and Kansas City Man Alike in Disposition Until Storm Calmed Down.

In Enid, Okla., according to a Kansas City man who goes there frequently, there is a collector of curiosities peculiar to the state. His line ranges from Indian moccasins to live coyotes. In fact he handles anything that might appeal to the romantic impulses and purses of Easterners. This dealer's store window recently attracted the interested attention of a portly salesman who was strolling about the town in company with the Kansas City man. With this obese traveling man to pause was to sit. The only convenient seat in this case was a box on the sidewalk in front of the store window. A piece of burlap had been spread over it.

The portly one just settled himself comfortably to enjoy the window display when his companion heard a snarling scream within the box and almost simultaneously the fat man was seen rising high in the air, propelled by his own sturdy legs. howl from him mingled with the falsetto one which emanated from beneath the burlap.

Subsequent investigation developed that the box was really a crate containing a temperamental wildcat about to be shipped East. The animal had been seized with an impulse to test its lungs and claws at about the time the salesman placed the posterior part of his anatomy so convenient for claw testing.

DEMAND FOR CASCARA BARK

Industry Was Once a Baby, but It Has Developed Greatly in Washington State.

A half million dollars was the value of this season's cascara bark, harvested by Grays Harbor (Wash.) folk. It is the peeled leather-like skin of the barberry tree, stripped by settlers and city dwellers who spend six weeks each spring in the swampy forests near Hoquiam.

Six years ago this bark gathering industry was a babe, the few who attempted to sell the peeled bark getting from 3 to 4 cents per pound for it-not knowing just how to properly cure and pack it. Then came the drug famine. The wholesale price which has gradually been rising is now 15 cents per pound and skillful strippers make $10 to $15 per day. With a knife an incision is made near the ground and a piece of bark once loosened there may be pulled from the tree upward for ten to fifteen feet. Taking but a part of the bark does not injure the tree.

Likes Color.

The other evening one of the charity organizations was giving a supper for a number of poor children of Indianapolis. One of the women had baked a particularly nice angel food cake for the occasion. One little boy attracted her interest and she decided that no matter what happened he should have a piece of her cake.

Accordingly she offended two or three women in passing their cakes by to get her own. She carried a big ece to the little fellow who gave it one look and said: "We got bread at home, lady. Please gimme some Crestfallen, she carried back her own cake and got him a piece of marble cake in which red and white mingled. And now she says, "No more angel food cake for me for charity parties.'

Truth Mixed With Poetry. A Muncie lawyer was making his first church speech. It was a weicome to the new minister, and in it he was telling of the beauties of his home town. He spoke of the streets, the residences and then he began on the trees. "I have one great tree in my yard," he said, "that means more to me than any other in town. Whenever I pass it I think of how often I have reached into its boughs to pluck the spring blossoms-'

And then came an interrupti

Shipping Sheet Rubber.

A new case for shipping sheet rubber has been introduced into Singapore shipping circles by an American firm. These reach local exporters in the form of sheets made of 100 per cent fiber, the riveting, packing and wiring being done by the shippers. The thinness of the sheets enables the cases built from them to hold from 12 to 25 per cent more weight of rubber than the old wooden boxes, and the new construction is practically unbreakable, very cleanly and waterproof.-Scientific American.

health nursing, to present bureau plans to the women supportes.

Representatives of seven state organizations voiced approval of the proposal to establish mother and baby centers and plans were launched to begin the work, made possible by the passage of the Sheppard-Towner bill. Directly after the meeting a health department representative left for Allegan county to organize a demonstration center, to be used as an example for other counties. It is planned to organize and operate the centers through local committees working in co-operation with state representatives.

Ypsilanti, Mich., July 14, 1922. To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti:

In regard to your request for an opinion as to whether the Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti acted within the limits of its authority in deeding a portion of Water Works Pack to the Air Alarm Company, and whether the Air Alarm Company acquired any valid title to the land so deeded, I wish to advise you that in my opinion the Common Council of the City of Ypsilanti did not have the authority to cause a conveyance the property now occupied by the Air Alarm Company, because the law expressly provides that no city shall have power to sell any property which was used for park purposes or used in carrying on a public utility, or any part thereof unless approved by threefifths of the electors voting thereon at any general or special elec-tion. If such a sale was so authorized by three-fifths of the electors, it could only be effected for a proper consideration, and by that I mean that the city must receive a reasonable value for the property so sold or conveyed is also my understanding that this property was conveyed by the city to the Air Alarm Company without consideration, and if this is true, it is my opinion that the conveyance to the Air Alarm Company was void because of the that city property cannot be donated for private use.

I am also reliably informed, although I have had no opportunity of examining the deed from the grantors to the City or Ylpsilanti, that in the conveyance to the City of Ypsilanti it was expressly provided that the property now occupied by the Air Alarm Company should be used for park purposes only, and that in the event that any other use was ever made of the prop-erty that it should revert to the grantors and their heirs. If this s true, it is an additional reason that the conveyance to the Air Alarm Company is without effect.

Respectively, JOHN P. KIRK, City Attorney.

THE REASON

On the first of August next the firm of Sullivan-Cook Company will cease to exist. At that time Mr. Wm. Snyder will assume Mr. Cook's interest, and thereafter the style of the firm will be the Sullivan-Snyder Company. To bring this change about it is necessary that a sweeping sale be put on that will bring in hundreds of dollars in 15 days.

Remember, Friends

That this is a bona fide sale and a price will be put on all merchandise with the one aim in view---GET THE MONEY no matter what the price of merchandise has been listed at.

Not since Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Cook purchased Mr. Platt's interest in the Sullivan-Cook Company, six years ago, has the public had such an opportunity to realize the advantage of attending such an exceptional sale.
